The Stag

Mackenzie High School

Detroit, Michigan

January, 1961

I Remember Mackenzie

Imagine yourself ten years from now, looking back on your high-school days at Mackenzie. Imagine yourself remembering the multitude of events that took place during those years. Maybe you're with a group of old school friends at the "ten year class reunion", or maybe you're sitting wherever you may be, thumbing through a "Stag". Whatever it is, you'll remember Mackenzie; and that is our theme: I Remember Mackenzie.

As you look through the "Stag" you wonder where some of your classmates are now, and if you would still remember them. They seem to be scattered from coast to coast. But you will remember the classes you were in and the teachers you had. Remember how strict some of them were and how you reacted to their demands for themes and library work. And remember studying for tests, especially the greatly dreaded final exams that were administered at the end of each term. Altogether, you were receiving a good education and being prepared for the future, and the teachers, you discovered, were an important factor in helping you become well prepared and ready to step out into the adult world.

Remember the extra-curricular activities you participated in and the fun you had in serving the school. They really proved a training ground for your future life. Remember the games and the cheerleaders. What a wonderful job they did and how hard they tried -- always out there with plenty of pep for the teams.

Remember the songfests and the programs held in the auditorium. What fun it was singing popular songs, and every once in a while there would be the old Fight song and the Mackenzie Anthem. Ah, the good old days at Mackenzie High School!

Remember . . .

President's Message

"Mackenzie High School is my alma mater." Each of us will be proud to make this statement long hereafter, when with a smile on our lips, we meditate on the best years of our lives -- years which we will be capable of capturing and reliving only in our hearts.

We will always remember our first days at Mackenzie because they proved to be so different and trying. Little did we think then that such an immense institution, which shaped the lives of hundreds of students every day, could yield security and happiness to each of us as individuals.

As we grew to know Mackenzie, we grew to love her . We supported her name by cheering at or participating in her athletic contests. Her plays, concerts, and songfests brought us joy and relaxation. How to live and work with others was learned because it was practiced every day at various meetings of teacher-sponsored clubs and activities.

From attending Band Bounces and other functions we knew that the Mackenzie Club existed, but we never really appreciated its efforts until we saw it in action on the Snow Trip, Cruise, and Washington Trip. Its members devoted their time and energy for our benefit.

During these years, we were also fulfilling our quest for knowledge through the tireless efforts of our competent teachers. When we needed help, it was comforting to know that we could turn to our counselors, administration, and parents for advice.

Now, as graduation night approaches, we must look to the future -- a future which offers us vast opportunities to aid our fellowman, as well as ourselves. Research and study are constantly opening ever increasing fields of endeavor. We are graduating during an era when tension pervades the entire world. To ease this condition we all must do our part and do it to the best of our abilities.

Mackenzie, you have helped us construct a strong foundation. Now we must decide to what height each of us will build our pillars of success from that foundation.

Outstanding leadership, scholarship, character, and service in the 10th, 11th, and 12th grades are a necessity for membership. Fifteen per cent of the class may be elected by the teachers in the four different fields. Membership is sought by many, but few have the honor of being elected to the Honor Society.

Class Diary

Carol Dean
and
Michael Geibel

Freshmen

After the first few weeks of high school, and after we got over the loss of prestige we suffered when we graduated from the 8A to the 9B, we meekly became resigned to our fate of being a "freshie." We even tried to smile when those nasty 9A's thought they could sell us elevator passes, or when our big brothers and sisters called us "freshie" in front of their friends. How quickly we got into the habit of taking tests, doing hours of homework, listening to M.R.U. and Student Council reports, and attending our first assemblies, songfests, Band Bounces, games, and our first school play. We loved starting IV or V hour because we could sleep in, but how we hated those X hour classes!

Sophomores

After meeting the kids from Tappan, we got down to such important work as dissecting worms in biology and slaving over geometry. And, of course, who could forget occupational planning, a very educational class. This was the year we started getting into the swing of things by joining such activities as the language clubs, Sportsmanship Council, ushers, and hall guards. This was also the year in which we gave willingly of our time to direct freshies to their classes. Besides that, we had to fit in all the games we could. The Cody game was the most exciting one. We suffered through mud and rain, but it was worth it when we won 20-0 and the gold football became ours for another year. How happy we were in the 10A when we got earlier hours.

Juniors

Upperclassman, what a wonderful word! This year we voted in our first congresses. We became more interested in sports because the members of our class were on the various teams. Since the boys could drive now, they became more interested in girls, and took them to the first Fantasma and the first Junior Prom. It was a sad day for us when Mr. Panush told us about the full schedule we were about to receive. Did you notice any briefcases around the school? This year we had more confiscated I.D. cards, broken milk bottles, and hard teachers. And of course no one could forget the Snow Trip, if for no better reason than the fact that there was no snow. The talent show with the slap-stick ads, can-can dancing, bongo drums, magic tricks, "beauty contest" (weren't the boys cute in their dresses?), and "fingers" Korbutiak at the piano was unforgettable.

Seniors -- 12B

Seniors, it took a long time but we finally made it. We got our first taste of class elections -- tags, posters, and speeches. The bowling party was our first successful class activity. This was the semester the privileged few were elected to National Honor Society. We were kept busy reading for literature, preparing reports for civics, and pasting articles in our chemistry scrapbooks. Perhaps of all our experiences in high school, the one we remember as the happiest is the Mackinaw Cruise. Who will ever forget waiting for the boat to come in, the "enormous" staterooms, all the food we ate, the rush to get bikes on Mackinaw Island, the fudge, the captain's dinner, how cold it got at night, and the sun-burned faces?

Seniors -- 12A

The first two months of our last semester at Mackenzie were by far the busiest. First of all, Congress members had to be elected. Then the big campaign for 12A officers started. Election time again brought all the tags, speeches, banners, poster parties, and posters (which were actually made at the poster parties!). And remember the tie we had for the first time in the history of the school? Shortly afterwards, the brown proofs began to come back from Craine's. Such remarks as "I hate all mine," or "Which one should I put in the Stag," or "How many pictures are you getting?" were common. Remember the Chrysler Police Award nominees, the Homecoming Queen, and the Commencement Speakers who were picked from our class? The Washington Trip was a big success; we received a thorough education about Washington, and very little sleep (sleep, on a train?).

After Fantasma, November was a peaceful month. We tried to catch up on our studying, and improve our marks. It certainly was nice not to have mid-terms, but term papers took up enough time. With a bit of sadness, we watched our last school play.

December was another busy month -- rehearsing for the Parents' Night program, being fitted for caps and gowns, choosing people to take over the jobs of the administrators and counselors for 12A Day, writing pictures, asking girls to the Prom, and looking for dresses for the Prom.

Now it is January. Each day brings us closer to a whole new future. Remember the job interviews and the college applications? In three days, even though we will go our separate ways, we will never forget our high school years together. No matter where your separate paths take you one year from now, ten years from now, or fifty years from now, you will always remember your high school days' at Mackenzie.

The Stag Staff works hard each semester to present Mackites with our semi-annual book, the Stag. Each year the staff tries to produce a quality book, sometimes even a larger book. This semester's Stag, we believe, is the result of a lot of planning and considerable work, a book which the staff is proud of.

Every Monday the Mackenzie Radio Unit beams its cheerful message into our record rooms telling us of events of the week, sports scores, and other school activities. The voices that are heard belong to the members of the first hour radio speech class who get practical broadcasting experience. Each week the responsibilities of the producer are placed upon different members. It's fun to be on the radio.

French Club

"Le cercle francais" was designed to further acquaint French students with the customs and cultures of France through movies, speakers, and other programs. Corresponding with French pen pals is a means by which students can apply their knowledge of the French Language. French Week is an annual project of the club. Club membership is open to all French students.

Row 4: J. Lindman, K. Harmsen, C. Greer, R. Grimm.

Members learn about Spanish speaking countries by means of films, slides, and records. They are not only interested in the language but also in the customs of the people they are studying. This is done by observing folk dances and some modern dances as well. They participate in Pan-American Week with posters and a special auditorium program.

Latin Club

Students are accepted into membership with an amusing initiation. On the serious side, they watch films and listen to music. They have speakers who help broaden their knowledge of the ancient language. All this is a part of their program of gaining greater knowledge about Latin.

Raising the standards and ideals of high school girls is the main purpose of Y-Teens, a branch of the Y.W.C.A. These girls sponsor dances, hayrides, and other social activities as well as participating in community affairs. These girls are a credit to Mackenzie as well as Detroit.

Used Bookstore

Students who work in the Used Bookstore, perform an activity with a double purpose. They are performing a service for their school and at the same time helping out their fellow students. Very often students need books and can't afford to pay the full price, so they turn to the Used Bookstore where the prices have been reduced. The bookstore staff has to keep records and handle the money involved in sales.

Human Relations

The weekly meetings of the council are devoted to learning about people and how to get along with them. Each week members of the faculty and other speakers talk to the group on a wide variety of topics. Their programs are planned by a special committee, alternating between films, discussions, and speakers.

Future Nurses

Getting both the theory and practice of nursing is the purpose of this group's program this semester. Their work consists of lectures and demonstrations. Registered nurses come here and talk to the girls. Not all activities are confined to the school however, as the girls go out and visit the hospitals. Theirs is a practical education in preparation for their chosen vocation of nursing.

This club gives Mackenzie's future scientists a chance to work and learn while doing the things they are most interested in. They explore and study the depths of science satisfying the great desire they have for knowledge. Use of all the school facilities with the aid of experienced faculty guidence aid these young people in their work.

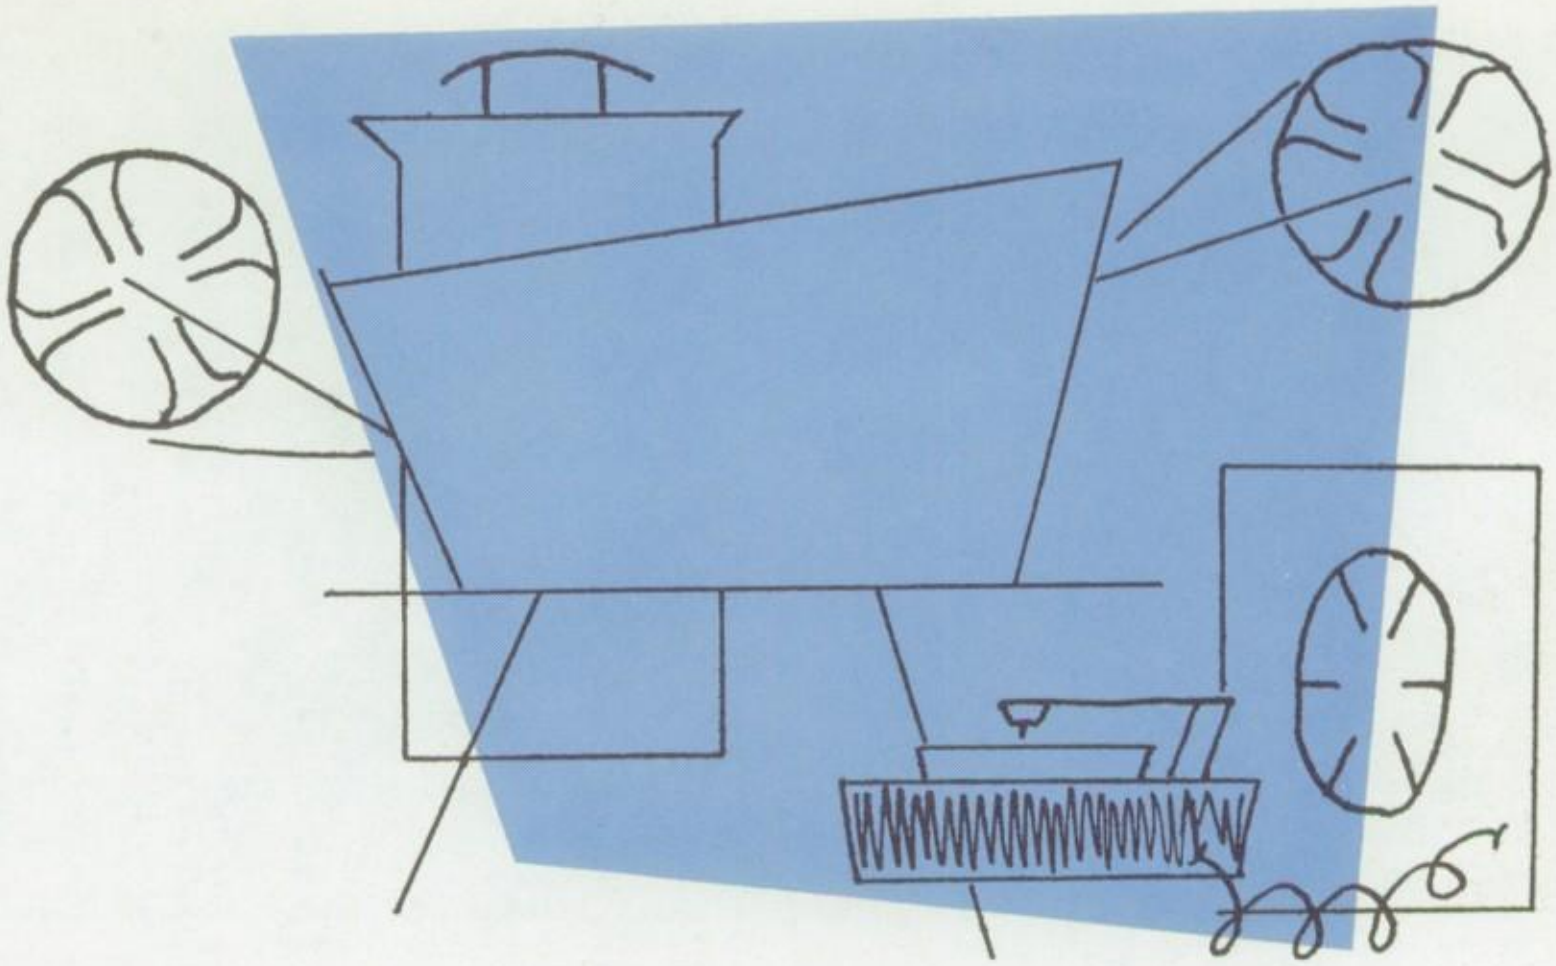
Speech and debate are the essential part of the work of this group. They are very helpful in going to record rooms and giving speeches on behalf of various school activities, such as the sale of school publications, concerts, plays, and other programs. They learn the fundamentals of speech and acquire self-confidence in being able to get on their feet and participate in discussion.



Audio-Visual is a newly organized staff at Mackenzie this term. They work hard at showing movies for groups, taking care of filmslides, record players, and tape recorders. "Efficiency" is their motto. It is safe to say that all equipment is in good hands with the Audio-Visual Staff.

Competition for a place on the Library Staff is keen because standards for membership are very high. The students handle all books, both those coming in and those going out. They also take care of overdue books, keep the shelves in order, and help with the inventory each semester. Those at the main desk are senior staff members.

Sportsmanship Council

Encouraging a sense of fair play and promoting school spirit are some of the objectives of our Sportsmanship Council. It is a representative group consisting of delegates from all school organizations. The group meets once a week, planning posters for school activities and games and also prepare programs listing the players names, positions, and numbers. It uses a slogan of value: Wherever you are and whatever you may be doing, always remember the good name of your school.

This play is a comic parable about man's struggle for survival, from the dawn of history until today, and of his efforts to create a more meaningful life for himself, his family, and all human beings.

The author transcends the ordinary obstacles of time and space that such an undertaking would ordinarily encompass, simply by disregarding a realistic or historical approach to his theme. Instead, he creates a family called Antrobus, and places them -- during the various acts in the play -- at three important stages of man's history -- the Ice Age, and the period of the Flood, and finally a great war.

In the first act we witness the approaching ice age from the living room of a New Jersey ranch house. The characters are somewhat exaggerated, and the situations quite contrived, yet despite it all, we recognize many truths about ourselves in this play.

Wilder helps us to see man at some of his high points, as well as allowing us a glimpse at the occasions when he failed to live up to expectations.

Mackenzie Belles

This fast-growing group of talented girls, under the direction of Mr. Delany, was honored by an invitation to perform in last year's Thanksgiving Parade. They produce fine, rich tones from imported bells from Holland. Mackenzie has a good reason to be proud of these girls.

Girls' Ensemble

Talented students, chosen from the Mixed Chorus for the Girls' Ensemble are always received enthusiastically for their arrangements of both popular and classical songs. Like the other vocal ensembles, the girls are often called upon to provide entertainment at civic luncheons, church parties, state conventions, and school programs.

String Ensemble

Select players and instruments are chosen from the orchestra to make up this special musical group. They function at teas, open house, parent gatherings, and are often invited outside to play for community groups. Wherever string music is desired, the group responds.

The snappy marches the Mackenzie Band plays at all football games during half-time, adds much to the enthusiasm of our home games. The band also participated in a yearly concert which was given in January.

All members of the Band played not only for their own enjoyment but for the enjoyment of the student body and is Macks' pride and joy.

No group at Mackenzie produces more, or works harder than the Mackenzie High School Band.

R. O. T. C.

The R.O.T.C. means ability in guidance and leadership to young men of Mackenzie. It means leadership in guiding others to do the right thing at the right time and ability to give and take orders correctly and accurately. These boys learn the fundamentals of map reading, aerial photos, and squad formations. Mackenzie's R.O.T.C. has won many awards and honors in actual rifle matches between schools.

Mackenzie's Football squad started this year rough and ready to go. Many hours were spent practicing and learning new plays. Due to stiff competition our team did not win, but the team members showed good sportsmanship at every game. We know that all Mackites are looking forward to our next football season.

Boys' Basketball

Striving for better teamwork and co-operation are some of the team's goals. Long hours of practice and practice games with other schools help to sharpen their skills. The Reserve team gives the younger boys an opportunity to learn the fundamentals of the game and to develop their skills. This early training helps to develop their skills. This early training helps to prepare them for positions on the Varsity team.

All girls who have a varsity or reserve letter are eligable for membership in the Girls' Athletic League. These girls have participated in such sports as field hockey, girls' basketball and swimming. They sell pins and refreshments throughout the school and at some of the schools' sports activities. The profits are given to the school as gift donations. They also improve school spirit.

Boys' Swim Team

These boys practice everyday so that they will be able to lead Mackenzie's Swim Team to victory in inter-school competitions. They also are able to keep themselves physically fit as well as building muscular co-ordination. These boys have proven practice makes perfect by winning most of their meets this year.

Row 1: G. Novis, R. Warshawsky, R. Boyd, F. Cole, G. Miller, S. Skelly, C. Ellis, J. McLeod, J. Blake, A. Zanetti, D. Daloisio, J. Zawislak.

Cheerleaders

Acrobats, dancers, and iron-lunged girls are the members of the Cheerleading squad. At every major sports event Mackenzie's Cheerleaders, no matter what time, weather, or place, sing out their cheers in a genuine effort to promote better sportsmanship among the student body and boost the morale of the players. Surely no school can be complete without cheerleaders.

To Mackenzie Students:

Again we come to the end of a term and to commencement time. To you who are completing your high school careers we offer sincere congratulations and best wishes for success and happiness in the years ahead.

For all undergraduates, and especially for you who are just completing your first term at Mackenzie, we hope this has been a happy and rewarding semester and that you are looking forward to the years ahead with pleasure and enthusiasm.

Some have had failures and disappointments. All of us at one time or another have these unhappy experiences. Life is seldom all fun and success. We should remember that failures and disappointments are not permanent. There are always new and perhaps better opportunities just ahead. If we face the future with resolution and courage we shall find eventually that life is good after all.

Office Staff

The members of the Office Staff keep Mackenzie running smoothly. This capable staff handles necessary correspondence, answers all questions, and receives parents. They also handle the school records and send them out to employers upon request. These people hold an important responsibility to the students and faculty of Mackenzie.
